Staying Open Initiative

The Dunagan Library will be hosting the Open Textbook Network (OTN), which launched on campus back on August 1, 2017. They are a consortium of colleges and universities working to advance open textbook initiatives, part of the Open Textbook Library (OTL), a collaboration between the Center for Open Education and the University of Minnesota Libraries.

These free, in-person workshops for all faculty, adjuncts, support staff and administrators will cover specific innovative solutions on open educational resources, open pedagogy, and open access from scholarly Industry leaders. We invite you to attend, become informed and not miss out on the next wave in freely accessible, openly licensed text, media, and other digital assets applicable for your latest teaching, learning, and research.

Author Presentation Series

As part of our Odessa Council of Arts & Humanities (OCAH) Grant, we are hosting a continuing Guest Author Presentation Series. This winter, Thursday (2/8) at 6pm in rm. 142 of the J. Conrad Dunagan Library, Mr. Greg Anderson will be traveling to UTPB from his home in Odessa and motivationally speaking on his book, “The Power of Crap: A Woman’s Guide for Turning Trials Into Triumphs.”

Come try our Chocolate Feast—complete with scrumptious treats. Dark, milk, white, etc.

We’re very excited about Greg’s big return to the Permian Basin, now that he is a real estate agent with Keller Williams Realty. You are invited to attend our Guest Author Presentation!
